FMA Holding, a portfolio company of Liberta Partners, has acquired NOX Systems, a leading developer and manufacturer in the field of security technology, with a focus on security and access control systems, headquartered in Vaduz, Liechtenstein.

With this acquisition, FMA Group underlines its strong growth with another strategic purchase in a niche market that opens up a new entry for security and alarm technology. NOX's products are widely used to support access control, intrusion detection systems and video surveillance.
