Checkout.com, a global payments solution provider, has tapped Baker McKenzie's attorney Christopher Murrer (pictured) as senior legal counsel.

Christopher Murrer most recently served as an associate in the FinTech, International Tax and Wealth Management practice groups of Baker McKenzie Zurich. Prior to that, he practiced law at the Washington offices of American law firm Venable. He started his legal career as a litigation assistant for Vorys Sater Seymour and Pease and later took up an associate position with U.S. based firm

Hodgson Russ.

Checkout.com has recently completed a successful Series D Funding round, raising USD1 billion at a USD40 billion valuation.
