

HOMBURGER ADVISED SIX ON THE CREATION OF AN INNOVATIVE CONTRACTUAL FRAMEWORK

Posted on 12 June 2020

Category: Banking & Finance

Tags: Benedikt Maurenbrecher, Ex-Featured, Homburger, Luca Dal Molin, Marcel Dietrich, Richard Stäuber, Six, Stefan Kramer

With the open banking platform "b.Link", SIX is creating the basis for innovative partnerships between financial institutions and third-party providers. In a first step, providers of accounting solutions in Switzerland can connect to financial institutions via the standardized b.Link interfaces. The first participants include KLARA as well as Credit Suisse, Neue Aargauer Bank and UBS. SIX operates b.Link as an open platform and plans to increase the number of participating financial institutions and third-party providers and the number of applications.

The team

Homburger advised SIX on the creation of an innovative contractual framework as well as on legal and regulatory aspects. The team included partners Stefan Kramer (pictured) and Benedikt Maurenbrecher (both banking and finance as well as technology and digital economy), Marcel Dietrich and Richard Stäuber (both competition/regulatory) and Luca Dal Molin (data protection as well as technology and digital economy).